FUTURE WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Take the first step in exploring a career in business.

The Mary Helen Wolfe Chandler Future Women in Business Summit provides young women, including first-generation and underrepresented students, with opportunities to explore business careers at the state's flagship university.

Hosted at The Ohio State University Max M. Fisher College of Business, the daylong summit connects rising high school seniors from across Ohio with successful Fisher alumnae and corporate partners — all of whom are dedicated to paying forward to the next generation of business leaders.

The summit:

- Introduces participants to a variety of business specializations and industries, including marketing, logistics, consulting, accounting, management information systems and operations
- Connects attendees with Fisher alumnae eager to share their professional journeys and insights through panel discussions
- Cultivates professional development skills through workshops and an etiquette lunch
- Introduces participants to leaders from local companies, including the event's sponsor, Deloitte
- Provides participants with information about the college application process and The Ohio State University

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

FISHER COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

Mary Helen Wolfe Chandler

For more than a century, the Max M. Fisher College of Business has proudly fostered a diverse, supportive and inclusive learning environment. Mary Helen Wolfe studied business at what was then known as the College of Commerce and Journalism at Ohio State. Wolfe, who graduated in 1919, became the first recorded female graduate of the college, paving the way for future generations of women leaders in business.

“It is an amazing program. I had a lot of fun and most importantly, I learned a lot about the business world and about Fisher. I’d recommend it to anyone interested in business — you get so much out of it, and you can start networking today.”

— Breleigh B.
(Marketing, Class of 2022)

“The summit was one of the best college campus experiences I’ve ever had, and it definitely will positively influence my college selection process.”

— Swathi V.
(Business Economics, Class of 2022)

“This was a very unique and special experience for me. I enjoyed meeting so many different women, and hearing their takes on their paths to success.”

— Emma O.
(Marketing, Class of 2022)
